

My Experience at San Diego Jewish Academy Lokesh B.

"The college counseling process at SDJA was the best I could ask for. As a new student in the country I was absolutely unaware of the meticulous steps and complications involved in this process. At SDJA I was able to get personalized attention aiding me in my college process, which I don't think I would have ever gotten at any other public or private school. They introduced, informed and guided me through every step along the way. The thing that was most unique about SDJA's counseling process for me was that they opened the doors and introduced the possibilities that were best for me without forcing or pressuring me. Or as Mr. Khan would say "I'm just here to make you aware of the available opportunities. Not to make the decisions for you". And the precise and the apt timing that was employed by the college process community released the pressure off my shoulders enabling me to concentrate on my grades and writing the essays. Overall the experience was warm, comprehensive and perfect to be honest."
